I must rattle my chains, and groan through keyholes, and walk about at night, if that is what you mean. It is my only reason for existing. It is no reason at all for existing, and you know you have been very wicked. Mrs. Umney told us, the first day we arrived here, that you had killed your wife. Well, I quite admit it, said the Ghost petu lantly, but it was a purely family matter, and concerned no one else. It is very wrong to kill any one, said Virginia, who at times had a sweet Puritan gravity, caught from some old New England ancestor. Oh, I hate the cheap severity of abstract ethics! My wife was very plain, never had my rufis properly starched, and knew nothing about cookery. Why, there was a buck I had shot in Hogley Woods, a...
